

Connecting You with Industry Leaders

Networking Opportunities

One of the important benefits of ABC membership is the opportunity to network with other construction industry professionals. ABC's meetings, networking groups and volunteer leadership opportunities open the door to meet with peers and like-minded construction professionals.

ABC Meetings

ABC conducts a number of conferences and meetings that provide the perfect forum for members to meet with peers and learn from industry experts.

- National Convention
- Mechanical Contractors Conference
- Electrical Contractors Conference
- Safety Conference
- Training Professionals Conference
- Legislative Conference
- Membership and Leadership Institute
- Attorneys Conference

Peer Group Networks

Contractors who participate in ABC's peer group program meet with like-minded members from across the country. Participants get together in small groups once or twice each year to share experiences and ideas about running their companies and best practices. A number of peer groups are currently organized for various specialty contractor groups and general contractors.

Volunteer Leadership

ABC invites all members to serve on any of its national committees. These volunteer opportunities help the association address the many issues that affect the industry. Members have the opportunity to share from their own experience, while becoming more informed in areas of special interest. Members desiring to be nominated to serve on an ABC national committee should contact their local chapter office. Committee member selection takes place in the early fall of each year.
